

RUBY IN C

Asphyxiating love I decided to compose.
A study of parameters converted into text.
A suite of pigeon's blood sprinkled on the walls.
Embedded into strings of a and b for least surprise.
And && which function as expected.
Everything true except false and nil.
Through method_missing and const_missing.
In a vivid medium-dark toned red.
Pure red with a hint of blue.
For you, only for you.
The color got carried away.

— Claire Donato, originally published in The Ill-Tempered Rubyist